WHAT SOLD, AND WHAT IT SOLD FOR

The twelve months to 31 August 2026 ran 1,139 sales against 939 in the twelve months before. That is up 21.3% on count and 23.8% on dollar volume, to $1,364,388,811.

The trailing twelve months closed at 101.6% of list price. Nine of those twelve months closed at or above list; three closed below it: October 2025 at 99.1%, December 2025 at 99.5% and January 2026 at 97.6%.

Half of what sold went under contract inside three days. The other half is the story: a long tail sat for months and pulled the average to 28 days. I report both numbers because the market has no gentle middle.

THE TURN

August 2026 closed 91 sales at a median of $899,000, the lowest monthly median of the trailing twelve months and the lowest since December 2024. It was also the first month in the series to move down year over year: sales down 3%, median down 5.3% against August 2025. The eleven months before it were all positive.

The premium over list has compressed five months running: March 104.0%, April 103.5%, May 102.2%, June 101.9%, July 101.0%, August 100.5%. Sellers are still getting list. They are no longer getting more than list.

WHERE IT SOLD

Mountain Brook closed 277 of the 1,139 sales, roughly a quarter of the whole luxury market in two counties, at a median of $1,265,000 and an average 16 days on market.

Homewood closed 94 sales at a median of $1,065,000 and an average 16 days. The twelve months before: 73 sales, $975,000, 34 days. The median rose 9.2% and the time on market halved.

Bluff Park, Hoover and Riverchase went from 128 sales to 206, up 60.9%, the largest volume gain of any submarket, at a median of $890,164. LibertyPark and Vestavia closed 194 sales at a median of $898,647. North Shelby and Hoover closed 188 at $962,500.

WHO IS BUYING

448 of the 1,139 sales closed in cash. That is 39%. Cash buyers paid a median of $1,124,180 against $910,000 for conventional financing. At the top of this market, the competition is often not another mortgage.

WHAT IS FOR SALE NOW

On 12 September 2026, 247 homes at $750,000 and above were actively for sale in the two counties, asking a median of $995,999, and had been listed a median of 49 days. Against a twelvemonth pace of 95 sales a month, that is 2.6 months of supply. Under three months is a seller's market by any conventional reading.

Put the two pulls side by side. What sold went under contract in a median of 3 days. What is still for sale has sat a median of 49 days, asking about 3.7% more than what is closing. Overpricing at this level costs months, not dollars.

IF YOU ARE SELLING, RELOCATING, OR MOVING UP

Selling: the number that matters is what closed on your road in the last ninety days, not what is asking. I will pull it for your address, with the dates. Relocating: tell me the office and I will frame the search by drive time, not distance. Moving above $700,000 for the first time: the report above is the position you are buying into.
